RETAIL INSPIRED DUPES

Retail inspired dupes provide the look or feel of luxury products without the same cost. Consumers who love high-end styles but don't want to spend as much can opt for these alternatives, allowing them to follow trends without breaking the bank. The term "dupe" is often used to indicate that a product is a direct, more affordable version of a popular or iconic item, offering a similar aesthetic or functionality.

Featured Brand

In 2012, Elemental was founded by Seth and Vinh in Southern California, inspired by the vibrant culture and beach vibe of LA. While based in Fountain Valley, the company's spirit reflects the creativity and dynamism of Los Angeles. Give Back: 3% of Profits are donated to Charity: Water, Beautify. Bright Link and/or the Alzheimer's Association.

Style Spotlight

Heavyweight Materials

The streetwear movement and "athleisure" trend have boosted the appeal of oversized, heavy, and well-constructed clothing. These pieces often convey a laid-back, relaxed vibe while still appearing intentional and fashionable. Heavyweight tees, in particular, fit well into the modern trend of oversized and boxy fits.
